MAHASISWA SISTEM INFORMASI

PROFILE

I'm an Information Systems student at Atma Jaya University with strong interests in web development, data analytics, and machine learning. I have built several academic projects, including a perfume vending machine information system using Node.js and MongoDB, an RPG game in C#, and a machine learning model using Scikit-learn to classify whether mushrooms are poisonous or edible, which earned an A in my Intelligent Information Systems course. I also participated in the Tech Fest 2025 Data Analytics Competition, where I analyzed datasets and created data-driven insights. I enjoy solving real-world problems through technology, learning new tools quickly, and collaborating in team-based environments.
